Service club hosts clothes swap session

NO pushing, no shoving, no scratching and definitely no biting! These are the four main rules which will be enforced when the Geebung-Zillmere RSL Club holds its first clothes buy/sell/swap event on Sunday, October 9.

As the name suggests, women are encouraged to bring along their pre-loved clothing and swap it, sell it or buy a new wardrobe.

Sellers must pre-register their attendance prior to the event by completing an application form www.gzrsl.com/clothes_swap

For those wanting to browse and pick up a bargain there is a gold coin entry fee.

Club marketing manager Holly Hansen suggests buyers should pre-register to receive five extra tickets in the raffle.

She said, "This is the first time we have run this event. We are trying to do something different as well as promote the green message of recycling."

Sellers will also have the opportunity to donate any unsold clothes to the Salvation Army at the conclusion of the event.

For more information either contact Holly on 3265 3711 or visit the website www.gzrsl.com

STUDENTS from Nashville State School in Brighton put their prize bull out to pasture after it was awarded the coveted state Archibull Prize recently.

The Archibull is an Art4Agriculture initiative that uses art and multimedia to promote the important role agriculture plays in our lives.

This year's competition, which featured at the Brisbane Exhibition, asked students to reflect on the theme 'bridging the rural urban divide' and discovering what it takes to feed Sydney for a day.

The six winning Nashville students, from grade 1 to 3, were provided a blank fibreglass cow, which they decorated to highlight the theme.
